Effective March 1, 2010, AGC members will be able to subscribe at substantially reduced rates to FMI's new interactive Web-based compensation reporting product, Compensation Interactive. The new FMI offering provides AGC member companies the ability to create real-time, customized reports for key professional level positions in 21 separate job categories, including:

- Business development
- Contract administration
- Project administration
- Project manager
- Project superintendent
- Safety engineer
- Estimating/engineering

The regular price for a Compensation Interactive subscription is $500 annually. Under the FMI agreement with AGC, starting March 1, AGC members will be able to subscribe on a trial basis free for the first six months. Members choosing to activate a full subscription before the end of the six-month trial would then pay just $250 for an additional 12-month subscription. In total, AGC Members can receive a full 18 month subscription for just $250. FMI will be participating in the AGC Convention and Pavilion on March 17-20 to demo the program.
